- With the fresh start and festive charm of WINDOW SHOPPING by Tessa Bailey, the meddling small-town vibes of Gilmore Girls, and the newcomer ready-to-save-Christmas energy of THE CHRISTMAS FIX by Lucy Score, MATCHMAKING UNDER THE MISTLETOE offers a Hallmark-style holiday romance filled with cozy cheer, small-town warmth, swoony banter, a second chance at love, and a satisfying happily-ever-after.

MATCHMAKING UNDER THE MISTLETOE by Hollie Luckie is a cozy, small-town holiday romance novella at 48,187 words about starting over when you least expect it, and falling for the one man you absolutely didn't plan to.

Fresh off a painful divorce, Millie, a Christmas-loving heroine, flees the city in search of a clean slate, only to be derailed by an unexpected snowstorm that strands her in Springside, Alabama. With her car totaled and nowhere to go for the holidays, Millie is reluctantly swept into the town's festive orbit when the charming mayor, Brian Jones, offers her a temporary job planning Springside's beloved Christmas events at the Deer Valley Inn while she's in town.

Sparks fly between Millie and her irresistible new boss, despite her firm resolve to stay single, as she juggles mistletoe mazes, gingerbread galas, and a town determined to play matchmaker. Forced proximity, holiday hijinks, and one too many "accidental" run-ins make it impossible to ignore their growing connection. But opening her heart again means risking everything she's worked so hard to protect.

Hollie Luckie brings a loyal readership from her self-published catalog, which spans contemporary romance, beach reads, cowboy romances, and—of course—holiday novellas. Her success stems from her authentic portrayal of Southern romance and her ability to captivate readers with heartfelt, unforgettable love stories.
